

INFORMATION ON UPCOMING CLINICS IN 2024 and the Clinic Process

Horse Safety Australia clinics are primarily an assessment for those with a significant background/ability in teaching riding lessons and those who have already worked as trail guides for a commercial operation. It is a practical Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) process, not a training clinic.

Guidelines for teaching, trail guide standards and the safe procedures we expect are demonstrated & discussed during the clinic process.

Qualifications are not guaranteed to be awarded to all participants at the clinic itself. If it is evident that there are some gaps in your knowledge, skills or experience we will assist those participants to fill these gaps after the clinic and work towards qualification goals. This may be logging further hours in the industry and being reassessed through a video assessment option.
